MEDIA PARTNERSHIP

Tricycle: The Buddhist Review (up to 4 partnerships available)

Sacred Writes is now accepting applications for up to four funded media partnerships with Tricycle: The Buddhist Review. Applicants must have graduate-level training in religious studies, theology, biblical studies, or related fields. Independent scholars, graduate students, and faculty members are eligible to apply for these opportunities.

Priority deadline for applications is 23 March 2020.

ABOUT TRICYCLE

Tricycle: The Buddhist Review is a print and digital magazine dedicated to making Buddhist teachings and practices broadly available. Tricycle also offers monthly online spiritual films, podcasts with leading Buddhist voices, weekly dharma talk videos, and a variety of online courses with expert teachers.

By remaining unaffiliated with any particular teacher, sect, or lineage, Tricycle provides a unique and independent public forum for exploring Buddhism, establishing a dialogue between Buddhism and the broader culture, and introducing Buddhist thinking to western disciplines.

Tricycle's readership includes longtime Buddhist practitioners, those who are curious about Buddhism or meditation, and those who do not identify as Buddhist but seek to enrich their lives through a deeper knowledge of Buddhist traditions.

SCOPE

Tricycle invites pitches for feature articles related to Buddhism with a word count between 1,500 and 3,500. Articles should be of interest to Buddhist practitioners or those interested in Buddhist practice. Recently published features and a list of the topics they usually publish—including arts & culture, history & philosophy, meditation & practice and society & environment—are available on their website (tricycle.org).

Production schedule will be set in consultation with the editor and will account for the scholar's pre-existing commitments. The expectation is final pieces will be ready by the end of 2020. Sacred Writes will provide a $1,000 stipend to the scholar(s) selected for this partnership.
